RE: ScanM2

To whom it may concern:

This letter communicates our experience with ScanM2, a 3D building documentation company.

We recently had the opportunity to interview five “as-built” documentation companies. The prices for this service ranged from around ten thousand dollars to forty-eight thousand dollars. The quote from ScanM2 was the most competitive price, the process was simple, and the deliverables were shared within a reasonable timeframe.

Since the initial project, our office has utilized ScanM2's services for three projects of varying scope and complexity. Communication with ScanM2 continues to be simple, and the turnaround time is quick. Scheduling the scan between ScanM2, the building owner, and the office is hassle-free and typically occurs the week after we agree to proceed.

When it comes to the deliverables, ScanM2 leaves no room for error. Their detailed and accurate outputs provide a good representation of the building.

We plan to utilize ScanM2's services again when we find the next building renovation or addition project.

I recommend ScanM2 as a vendor providing documentation of existing buildings.

Sincerely,

Christopher JP Collins, R.A. LEED^{AP}
